To Whom It May Concern:

Through a brief discussion back in September 2011 with the General Contractor, it was determined that the Reveal residence requested a safer diving board, by deepening the pool in the diving area and widening the pool by 5' as they reported they felt there was a significant safety issue since kids could practically jump all the way across from north edge to south edge of the pool. The previous owners build it as a lap pool, not for families in mind. Since the Reveals have two young children they are concerned more about safety issues. To change to a "better" and safer diving area, it would require a deeper pool, which in turn, changes the shape of the rectangular pool a bit.

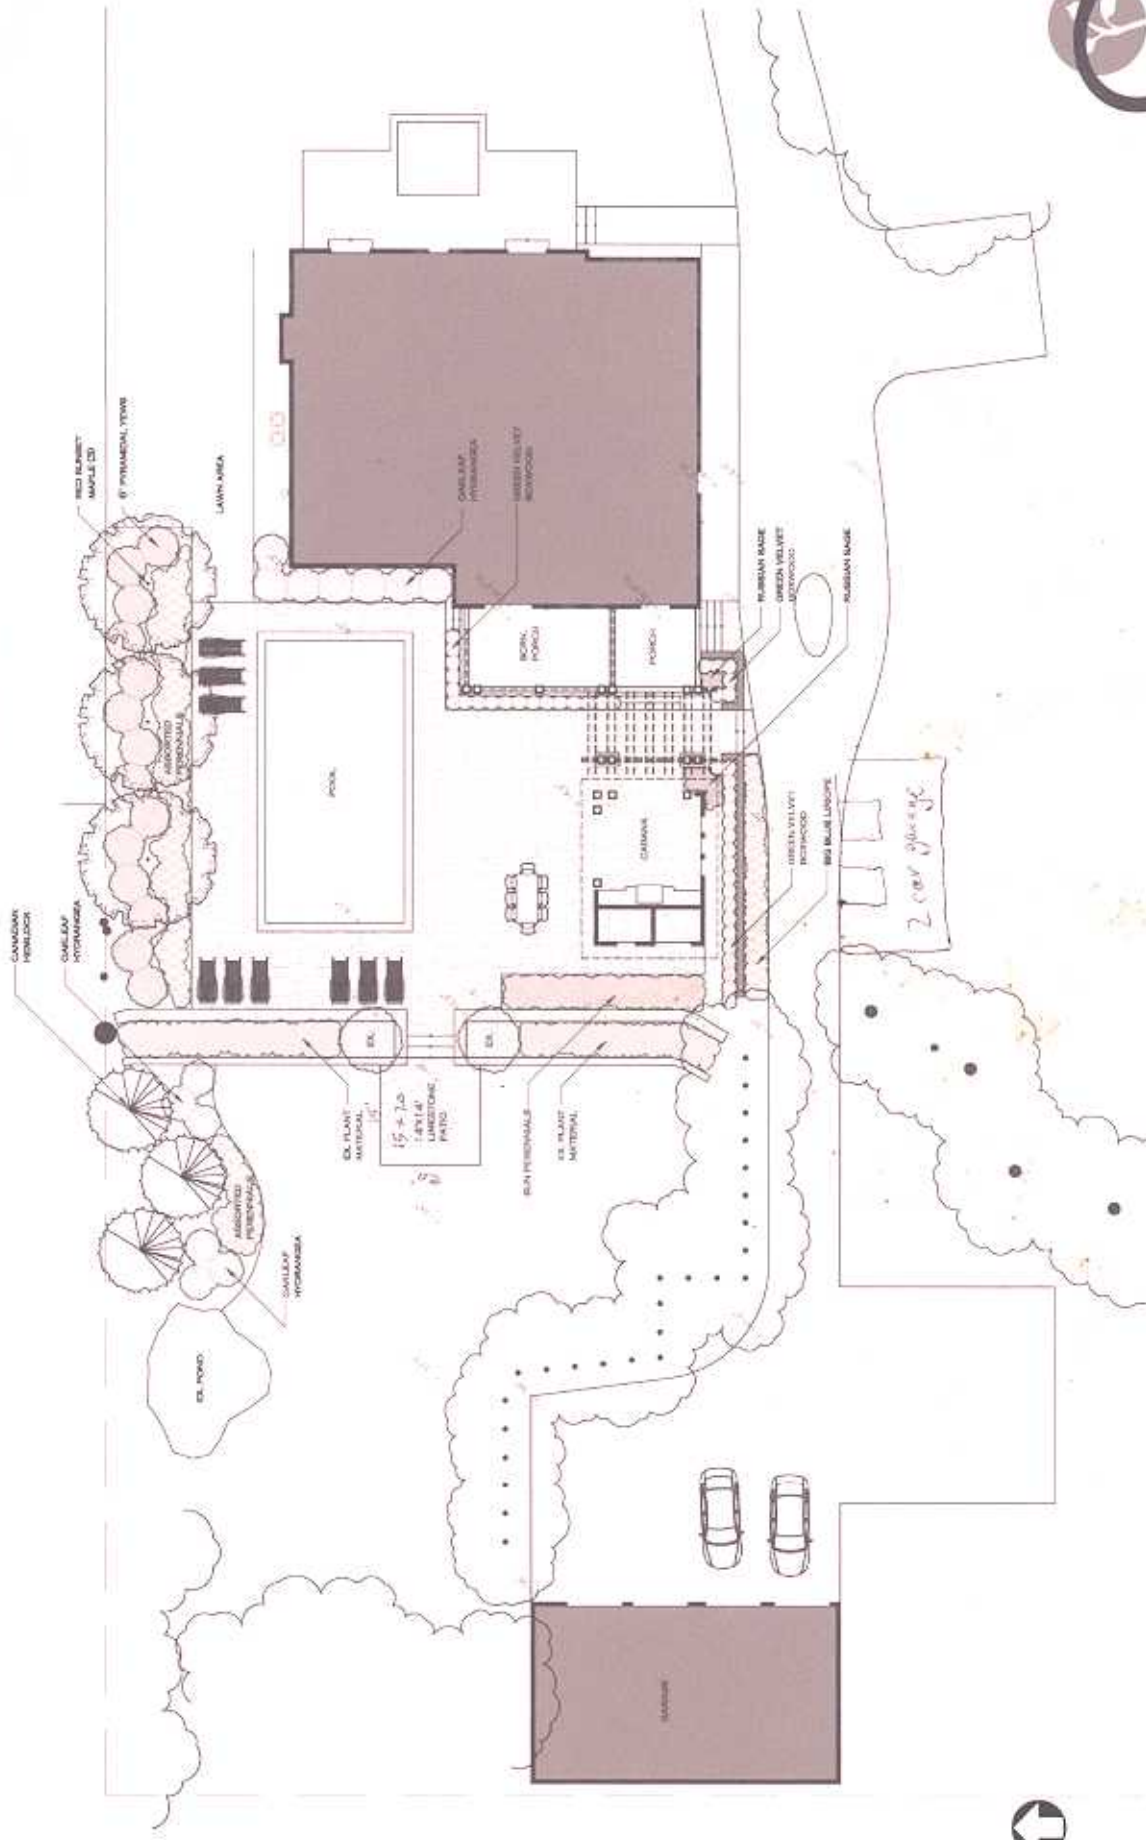

It was my suggestion to go with a 20'x 40' gunnite swimming pool which would allow for the required safety depth and would increase shallow area at pool entrance for younger children as well as adults.

If you have any other questions, please feel free to contact me.
